If you have beauty in your home surroundings, you will find this an investment which will pay you large dividends!

A proper selection of both flowering shrubs and flowering trees means an attractive, well organized display of both flowers and berries throughout the entire year.

Flowering Shrubs give you a changing landscape as you can get in no other way. By the proper selection, on a somewhat extensive planting, you can have something in bloom or berry the year 'round. While it is true that most of the shrubs bloom in the spring, yet others do bloom later, and these with the ones that hold their berries into the winter, prolong the season of outdoor interest. You will see that the blooming time of most of these plants is shown in the descriptions on following pages.

Coniferous evergreens add a certain amount of dignity to a place that you can get in no other way.

Our red-clay soil here is particularly well suited to the growing of both coniferous and broad-leaf evergreens, and it sticks together well so that our balled plants carry much better than from sandy soils; our men know how to dig and ball, so that these plants will reach you in good condition.

These September days give me what my Quaker friends call "a concern" about the importance of the garden in the general scheme of preparedness. There is abundant evidence that the building program for tanks and planes and guns and submarines can't really flourish without the mental and spiritual relief that trees and roses, plants and flowers can give.

"We do not fight wars with roses," writes a German friend. "Give us bread but give us roses" sings a poet.

The plantsman is promoting freedom and democracy as he redoubles his efforts to make homes and roadways restfully pleasant. At the Mount Pleasant Press we dwell on this thought, and I insist that gardening has a sound relationship to the democratic way of life.

Enclosed is a check in full payment for shrubbery and planting services recently supplied on the ten small residence jobs in this city for which I acted as the owner's agent in placing the order with you to execute the plantings specified on my plans. To New Home Owners:

Greetings:

The descriptive price list mailed herewith shows a complete assortment of trees and plants suitable for planting in this section of the South.

You will see on page 5 flowering trees and shrubs listed in their approximate blooming periods. You should turn to this page and select plants from each section, and in this way be assured of almost continuous bloom or berry all seasons of the year. This makes your planting much more interesting than if all your plants bloom only in the Spring.

Although there is less nursery stock in the country now than in the past several years, prices have not advanced to amount to anything as a whole, but we believe they will be higher later on.

If you do not know exactly what or where to plant, send us a kodak picture of your place and we shall be glad to advise with you as to what may be used to obtain the best results for the amount you wish to invest in the planting, with no additional cost for this service.

If your place is large enough for you to need the services of a landscape architect, we are prepared to render this service, by sending a man to look your place over, and let you know what to use to get the best results for your money.

Not only do we grow ornamental trees and plants, but a good assortment of Peach and other fruit-bearing trees also. Peach trees are listed on page 1.

The LINDLEY nurseries have been in existence for 98 years, and we are striving to continue to merit the patronage for another like period. You know, the most important part of any article is the honor and integrity of the producer.

The shipping season is now on, and we await your reply with interest.

Yours truly,
